Archbishop Lori on interior and exterior freedom

We need to retrieve the richness and complexity of religious freedom - as a way of transforming from within the understanding of freedom in the culture. Thus, the does the City of God infiltrate the City of Man to make it worthy of itself.

Pope, President Trump speak of hopes for peace

Pope Francis and U.S. President Donald Trump spent 30 minutes speaking privately in the library of the Apostolic Palace May 24, and as the president left, he told the pope, "I won't forget what you said." Read more.

Archbishop Lori speaks with Crux's John Allen

Archbishop William Lori told Crux that while he welcomes the recent executive order on religious freedom issued by President Donald Trump, "the devil is in the details". He also said that repeal of the Johnson Amendment barring churches from endorsing candidates isn't a focus, because "that's really not our job." Check it out!

USCCB President, Cardinal Daniel DiNardo: Executive Order begins a process

We will continue to advocate for permanent relief from Congress on issues of critical importance to people of faith. Religious freedom is a fundamental right that should be upheld by all branches of government and not subject to political whims. Read more.

Blog post: Maybe the cure is the problem

The desire to remove entry barriers to the groups that make up civil society is understandable. We want everyone to belong somewhere; but we shouldn't shoehorn everyone into belonging everywhere. When the removal of barriers bleaches out distinctiveness and weakens mission-including religious mission-we undercut the goal of building a truly inclusive society. Read more.
