Urgent Action Needed on Contraceptive Mandate - MIDNIGHT DEADLINE!

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) has asked for comments from the public on how best to accommodate stakeholders who have religious objections to contraceptive and sterilization coverage, while assuring that people with no religious objection to such coverage can still obtain it. Today is the deadline. Please file your comments before midnight and speak up today!

Study Finds that Religion Contributes $1.2 Trillion to US Economy

For those that are unconvinced that threats to religious liberty here at home are insignificant compared to those suffering the realities of genocide abroad, it's incumbent to realize that draining the financial resources of domestic religious institutions hurts everyone and limits the ability that they can respond to and support those suffering persecution in other parts of the world. Read more.

Doctors, States Challenge New "Transgender Regulation"

Doctors, hospitals and five states will file a lawsuit today against a new federal regulation that would force doctors to ignore science and their medical judgment and perform gender transition procedures on children. The government does not even require Medicare and Medicaid to cover these same gender transition procedures because the Health & Human Services' (HHS) medical experts found the risks were often too high and benefits too unclear. But any doctor citing the same evidence and their judgment in an individual case would be in violation of the new mandate and face potential lawsuits or job loss. Read more.

Religious Freedom Issues Loom Large in 2016 Election

With every passing U.S. election cycle, First Amendment and religious freedom-minded voters and watchdogs might be tempted to think, "This is the election that will most matter in our lifetimes." But as recent years have brought a wave of religious liberty court battles and the federal contraceptive mandate infringing on an array of operations by church entities - along with a U.S. Supreme Court vacancy to be filled - 2016 might be a seminal electoral year.
